Kerkham—Smithson

A very quiet wedding took place at Medicine Hat Wednesday morning, August 14, at ten o'clock, when Kathleen Jenny, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Smithson, became the bride of Mr. Algernon C. Kerkham of Calgary, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Kerkham, Leithbridge. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Canon Western in St. Barnabas church, which was beautifully but simply decorated with gladioli and sweet peas. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin, played by Mrs. Geo. Esmonde-White. She was tastefully gowned in a pale green georgette ensemble, with hat to match, and wore silver slippers; she carried a bouquet of opelia roses with shower of lilies-of-the-valley.

The wedding party, which consisted only of relatives and intimate friends, then adjourned to the home of the bride's parents, where the wedding breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Kerkham left for a week at Elkwater lake before their departure for Calgary, where they will make their future home.—Medicine Hat News.

Arthur Garrard Dies Suddenly

Arthur Garrard, a resident here since 1909, died in the Holy Cross hospital on Thursday, August 15th, after being in the hospital some three days heart trouble being the cause. The funeral took place on Sunday to the Champion cemetery. Rev. S. R. Hunt officiating. The deceased homesteaded in the Lemond district, where he lived with his mother for a number of years, finally moving to this vicinity after his mother's death. He had not been in the best of health for some time but recently grew so much worse it was thought desirable to send him to the hospital for treatment. While of a quiet and retiring disposition he made many friends who will mourn his decease. He leaves a brother in Grand Rapids and a sister in Omaha, the former having been a well known resident here for some years.

Tributes of flowers included a handsome wreath from the Cleverville Pioneer's Club.

Bible School Holds Exercises

The Primary Dept. of the Vacation Bible School held closing exercises before their friends on Monday afternoon, eight children receiving certificates for regular attendance and a number of others taking part of the course. Songs and scripture learned were delivered. A beginners class had also been held by Intermediate girls and Miss Rheta Campbell gave splendid leadership to the Junior Intermediate girls.

The Arctic Oil Co. have two tanks on the track here for the purpose of establishing an oil station here. It is understood some difficulty with regard to a site for the station has occurred and the report is current that a site near the depot is to be provided. Naturally any section of the town will be opposed by the citizens generally. It is to be hoped rumor is wrong in this instance.

NOTES AND COMMENT

Everyone will agree with the Village authorities in their effort to stop foolish and dangerous driving on the streets of Champion. There is not a very long list of offenders but it has been a matter almost of wonder that even a few individuals should be allowed to endanger lives by silly and dangerous speeding for which there is not the slightest need. This is one of the cases where a few reckless drivers could deprive the privilege of the individual who has some reason to get somewhere quickly, as once restrictions are enforced they must apply to everybody. Naturally the loaded truck is one of the worst offenders when driven recklessly, as very quick control of a heavy load is impossible. It is to be hoped no actual prosecutions will be necessary to enforce so reasonable precaution.

Reports concerning the choppy condition of the newly built highways in this and other vicinities are extremely unfavorable and it is very much to be regretted that persistence in prosecuting so much road work was carried out so extensively this very dry season. Much of the work was done in reconditioning roads that were already in a very good condition. As a result travellers and tourists are enquiring for unmolested trails and prairie roads so as to avoid by convenient detours the almost impassable recently constructed grades. Many of these roads will have to be extensively repaired, in reality, almost rebuilt before they can be used with comfort and safety. They certainly will not be much used for heavy traffic. It is a great pity that many apparently good roads had to be torn up unmercifully and rendered unfit for traffic.—Lionel Press.

Too Much Low Flying

Habit Is Menace to Public and Should Be Forbidden

Aeroplane piloting as a result of collisions with telephone or telegraph wires or falling on account of losing their flying speed a few hundred feet, above the earth brings up the danger of persons on the ground when accidents of this kind occur. The newspapers recently carried a despatch from Kentucky about a student pilot crashing in the centre of the business district of a Kentucky town, killing the aviator and two business men.

Those who are interested in flying and genuinely anxious to promote the development of aviation have been doing everything in their power to bring into effect regulations that will make for the safety of those who fly and those on the ground. Despite their efforts it is possible that too much flying at a low altitude is being done over Western Canadian cities and towns. An aeroplane a few hundred feet above a city street is a menace to citizens. The accident that cost three lives in the Kentucky town might be repeated here.

The authorities, no doubt, would have the hearty co-operation of aviation officials in framing regulations that would prevent flying over cities and towns except at a height that would give the pilot a chance to glide to an open landing place in case of accident. Furthermore, no pilot should be allowed to fly above or around a city or town who is not familiar with the location of open fields, telephone, and telegraph wires.

Aviation is so important that everything possible must be done to reduce risks of every kind.—Regina Daily Post.

Production in Prairie Provinces Greater Than Last Year

There is evidently not going to be any scarcity of butter in Western Canada this year. Production of creamery butter in the prairie provinces in 1929 is considerably greater than last year.

For the first five months of this year receipts of creamery butter at output in Alberta showed an increase of 18 per cent, compared with the corresponding five months of 1928. The quantity of creamery butter produced in Saskatchewan during the five months under review was 3,831,293 pounds, compared with 2,682,629 pounds, an increase of 43 per cent. In Manitoba, production was 1,748,616 pounds, or 84 per cent. The Expedition of the Altar of Burnt Offerings, Ezra 3:1-6. The journey from Babylon must have required many months. The first work undertaken in the homeland was the building of houses and the tilling of ground. But as early as the seventh month after their return the altar of burnt offerings was rebuilt and there the offerings were sacrificed according to the law of Moses. In the second month of the second year after their return a start was made with the rebuilding of the temple. Money was contributed to pay the masons and carpenters, and furnished food and drink and oil to the men of Sidon and Tyre who brought cedar trees from Lebanon to Joppa on the coast, whence they were transported to Jerusalem.

The Foundation of the Temple. Ezra 3:10-11. The temple was to be the Jews' "what the Egyptians were to the Egyptians, the Coliseum to the Romans, and the Parthenon to the Greeks." William S. Mitchell. The first work undertaken in the homeland was the building of houses and the tilling of ground. But as early as the seventh month after their return the altar of burnt offerings was rebuilt and there the offerings were sacrificed according to the law of Moses. In the second month of the second year after their return a start was made with the rebuilding of the temple. Money was contributed to pay the masons and carpenters, and furnished food and drink and oil to the men of Sidon and Tyre who brought cedar trees from Lebanon to Joppa on the coast, whence they were transported to Jerusalem.

While the workmen laid the foundation the priests in their robes blew the trumpets, and the Levites sounded the symbols in praise of the Lord as had been done in the time of David, saying, "For He is our God." His loving-kindness and His faithfulness for ever toward Israel. This is the theme of the psalmist.

Of God runs through Psalms 108, 118 and 136. There were probably two choirs singing alternately. "If the 118th Psalm was originally appropriated to this occasion it is fitting to see with what force the two choirs complete the picture. The first trope and antistrophe: 'Open to me the gates of righteousness.' This is the gate through which the righteous shall enter; but we must have welcomed the foundation stone which, after all difficulty and opposition, had at last been raised on the angle of the rocky platform."—H. I. Cowham.

The formula which afterwards (Matthew 23:39) became proverbial for such popular celebrations: "Hosanna! Hosanna!"—H. I. Cowham. The name of the Eternal."—Dean Stanley.

The Improved Glass Substitute

COMES WITH A MESSAGE OF HEALTH

THE sun is the all-powerful life producer. Nature's universal disinfectant and germ destroyer, as well as stimulant and tonic. WINDOLITE is the sun's most important ally.

Medical science has definitely proved that from the point of view of Health and Hygiene, the most effective against the sun's rays are the Ultra-Violet rays, which possess the greatest power for the prevention and cure of disease.

Science has further established that ordinary window glass does not allow the passage of Ultra-Violet rays, so that the rays are artificially excluded these vital health giving rays. Therefore, the use of WINDOLITE has completely satisfied the long-felt want. Exhaustive experiments have conclusively proved that WINDOLITE is a most effective substitute for glass, that it freely admits the Ultra-Violet rays and has the most beneficial effect on the growth and development of plants and chickens and on the well-being of cattle, mailed for the first time to have healthy hinds instead of barren ones.

Indeed, the discovery of WINDOLITE has during the last five years completely revolutionized gardening, given a new stimulus to poultry breeding, increasing the egg-laying capacity and fertility of chickens, and greatly improved the health of cattle and is now being used in domestic and household requirements.

WINDOLITE stands for 100 per cent. sunlight. It makes light, strong windows for cattle sheds, dairy stables, poultry houses, brooders and all out buildings. It is economical, unbreakable, flexible and is easy to cut and fit. It is now being successfully used for nurseries, verandas, schools, factories, hospitals, sanitariums, hot beds, plant covers and greenhouses. It keeps out cold, rain, and snow, and lets in the sun's rays. It is sold in sheets and is easy to fit. WINDOLITE is supplied in rolls any length but one width of 36 inches only. One square yard of WINDOLITE weighs about 14 lbs. while ordinary window glass of the same size weighs about 135 to 140 lbs. The improved WINDOLITE requires no varnish. WINDOLITE is made in England.

Price $1.50 Per Square Yard, F.o.b., Toronto.

Use WINDOLITE to let YOUR PLANTS and YOUR CHICKENS and YOUR CATTLE Bask in 100% Sunlight. Read for booklet "WINDOLITE".

Wants Alberta Coal But Price Prohibitive

"Canadian dealers are submitting tenders for Alberta coal at $7.50 a ton, as compared with $4.50 quoted for the American product," Mr. Glasgow said, adding: "the tragedy is that the coal we want is in Alberta."

U. S. CRITICISM OF REPARATIONS PUZZLES BRITAIN

London, Eng.—American newspaper criticism of Mr. Philip Snowden's attitude at the Hague reparations conference in connection with the heavy financial burden which has surprised as much as it has mystified the British people, newspapers and politicians.

They find it difficult to reconcile the United States stand regarding war debts, which is very firm, to the attitude of the British Chamberlain of the Exchequer and they suspect there must be a hidden motive.

It is suggested in some quarters that the real reason to be found in the recent negotiations between Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, and American bankers, which was founded upon the presumed acceptance by the British Government of the entire Young plan. It is also suggested that Mr. Snowden is aware of this and that therefore his attitude is more adamant than ever.

Hints in American newspapers that Mr. Snowden's stand may make the Anglo-American negotiations on naval disarmament more difficult, has frankly puzzled British officials and the public, who are so strongly behind the chamberlain that newspaper office are being deluged with letters from readers of all political parties praising his attitude.

There is no doubt that if the new Labor Government went to the country tomorrow they would be returned by an overwhelming majority, and the only regret of some former Labor politicians is that the Government is unable to take advantage of a situation that is not likely to arise again during the life of Ramsay MacDonald's cabinet. Even the most disenchanted Tories are dismayed.

Mr. Baldwin had adopted an attitude similar to Mr. Snowden's when negotiating the war debt settlement with the United States; he would still be prime minister.

Not since the great Dussanell went to Versailles at Vienna, and returned with "peace and honor" has there been such a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm for a British statesman. This is making it all the more difficult for the British public to understand the American attitude, as revealed by the American press.

BRITISH EMPIRE MOURNS DEATH OF GEN. LORD HORNE

Edinburgh, Scotland.—Great Britain and the Empire is mourning the loss of Gen. Lord Horne, commander of the first army from 1916, and famous for his artillery methods in the battle of the Somme. Lord Horne died suddenly while shooting on the moors of his estate at Stillebole.

The despatches did not give the cause of his death. He was 65 years old and had held many high commands in the British Army where he was celebrated especially as an artillery commander.

The Canadian corps, as part of the first army, came under Lord Horne in the closing drive of 1918. Gen. Sir Arthur Currie, commander of the Canadian corps, was the recipient of an historic message from the army commander after the great Canadian victory at Amiens. Lord Horne then expressed his high appreciation of the determined fighting by the Canadians in forcing the crossing of the canal and capturing Bourlon Wood and the high ground north and northwest of Cambrai, and in the end of the war his corps were engaged in an attempt to stem the advance of the four Canadian divisions.

At the outbreak of 1915, General Horne accompanied Lord Kitchener to Gallipoli and was afterwards sent on to Egypt to command the defences of the Suez Canal. He was appointed to command the 15th corps in Egypt in January, 1916, and in the end of the war his corps was transferred to the Somme area.

A sum of $100,000 was voted to Lord Horne by the House of Commons as a tribute from the nation after the Armistice.

The Singing Fool

SYNOPSIS

Marcus, the famous Broadway producer, visits Blackie Joe's New York night club, where he hears Al Stone, Blackie's singing waiter, render a low ballad of his own composition. Marcus offers to buy the song, but Al consents on condition that the producer will hire Molly, his sweet-heart, to sing the song in one of the Marcus reviews. Marcus agrees. Molly tried Al disinterestedly before, but because he was only a waiter, but now she makes up to him. Thus the night ends with two persons, Al and Molly, supremely happy. But the next morning in the heart of Grace, the beautiful cigarette girl, for she is deeply in love with Al. She runs quickly home to hide her tears.

CHAPTER IX.

Time feels the sharpest wounds, say the philosophers. Perhaps, but the memory of the wounds may last a long, long time. Fortunately in the man or girl who has the strength to keep those memories from becoming bitter.

Grace Parrel, the cigarette girl at Blackie Joe's, was such a person. Stone and Molly Winton had left and become headliners on Broadway. As weeks lengthened into months, Grace heard reports of their achievements and saw their pictures in the papers. Al had become one of the outstanding song-writers of Tin-Pan-Alley; his melodious scores featured all the Marcus reviews. His ballads and comic numbers had made him famous throughout America. Molly, true to Al's prediction, had become a headliner in the Marcus musical shows.

Once Grace begged time off from Blackie to see the outstanding Marcus show of the season. She had hoped Al would appear, but he didn't. However, Molly was there as one of the featured performers, singing Al's words and melodies. Grace leaning forward in her first row gallery seat, had to admit Molly put the songs over well. Molly was dead, graceful, self-possession, and she knew how to get the most from a song's variations.

"Perhaps I was wrong in thinking she couldn't make Al happy," mused Grace. "She certainly knows her business and she is awfully pretty." Yes, Molly was pretty. Yet Grace's intuition told her, even from this distance, that there was something odd and calculating about her successful show-biz rival. Her smile and gaiety made Grace distrust her.

But Grace caught herself up in these critical thoughts—perhaps, she reasoned, they came from jealousy. She determined to stifle them. They weren't fair to Molly.

Occasionally Al revisited Blackie Joe's and received congratulations from the old friends, but Molly never designed to set foot in the place where he had started his career as the ladder of fame. "That's Molly—too high-hat," murmured Blackie Joe to Grace in explanation.

Grace never forgot Al's first visit to Blackie's after Broadway had claimed him for its own. She was very busy with her cigarette tray, her head lowered, when a familiar voice equaled:

"How much the lot, Grace?"

Grace almost tipped the tray over in her astonishment and delight. There stood Al, resplendent in the latest cut of dinner coat, with the same kindly eyes, the same white, even teeth.

Al leaned over, before Grace knew what he was about, and kissed her lightly on the cheek. It was merely a quick, friendly peck, with no hint of romantic feeling, but because she was unprepared, Grace blushed crimson. Al did not know that his careless gesture aroused across the profound love for him that had caused Grace sleepless nights and that she had managed to control only recently.

But in a moment she recovered herself completely, giving him a friendly smile to match his own. She was determined he should never see her again, but Al, unwittingly, made her suffer.

"We're simply thrilled about your success, Al!" she exclaimed enthusiastically. "Blackie and I and the others here at the club talk of you often. You're a famous man, Al, and you're a rich man."

"Yes, I suppose so," Al replied, laughing. "It's awfully good or you to think of me that way."

But Grace thought she detected the faintest shadow across his mouth. "What's the matter, Al?" she inquired anxiously. "Isn't everything as you wished?"

"Oh, yes, Grace, everything's K. O.," answered Al.

Then he shook hands with the performers and, after a short talk with Blackie, vanished to the glittering upstairs section to visit Marcus in his palatial skyscraper office overlooking Broadway. They talked over the next review.

"Well, Al, is genius burning?"

"What price the new songs?"

"They're coming along swell," answered Al quickly. "I've got a South Sea number almost finished and I'm starting on a kid song. I think I call it 'Little Feller.' Like that?"

"Sounds good," said the producer. "Can you let me see both next week?"

"Sure thing," said Al, and nervously rose to leave. He wanted to reach Molly's dressing room at the Marcus show and tell her that the show was just ending. But he also wanted to ask one question.

"How's Molly getting along Marcus?"

"Great! She's a fine little artist and the crowds take to her." Al fairly beamed. He didn't care so much about his own success, but whenever anyone praised Molly and his happy glow stole over him. His wife was still his dream girl. But now Marcus said a strange thing.

"Everything's all right between you and Molly?"

"Oh, surely! Everything's perfect. Why do you ask?"

"Oh, nothing—but you know I'm show business, where people for the marriage are both headliners there's often disunion. You and Molly are unusual that way."

Marcus gave a mysterious little smile and Al moved toward the door. "Molly's the one who's unusual—she's perfect!" said Al, and disappeared through the door.

He wondered what Marcus meant by that mysterious smile, but dismissed from his mind as he rode down in the elevator. Then he turned the corner, ran across the street, and entered another elevator to be whisked aloft to the dressing room. He found Molly in her dressing room, garbed for the street, chatting with John Perry.

John Perry was Al's best friend and a peculiar individual. The most peculiar thing about him was his mysterious source of income. He never seemed to work, yet he had plenty of money and spent it freely. Along the White Way they called him a racketeer and said he controlled the illicit distribution of contraband liquor in a district peppered with high class night clubs.

Physically he was decidedly prepossessing, being tall and dark. When Molly and Al had first arrived on Broadway, John Perry had heard their praises and done them many little favors. Al, who liked everybody, had taken decided fancy to him, and had frequently talked over his songs with the doorman racketeer. Molly hadn't seemed to like John so much at first, but lately his charming manner had won her over, and her attitude had been quite friendly.

Perry raised his glance to John and entered and proffered his hand.

"Well, Al told me, I've been visiting Molly. Hope you don't object."

"No, at all," John smiled, in suggestion with a laugh and a wave of the hand. "I like Molly to meet other people, and you know I don't regard you as one of my best friends."

John Perry raised his glance to the ceiling, shrugged his shoulders, but did not say a word.

"Shall we go, Al?" said Molly quickly and rather nervously. "I've been waiting for you some time."

"Sure, right away," I was detained talking to Marcus about the new show. I have arranged for you to have the dressing room. Where shall we go—to a club or home?"

"Let's go home, Al. I'm tired."

"As they left the dressing room, Al went first down the narrow corridor. He did not see Perry give Molly's hand a surreptitious squeeze as she followed.

Weights Canadian Outlook

Bank Of Montreal Says Other Items Will Offset Small Wheat Crop

Canadian prosperity will not be affected by the failure of the wheat crop this year because of numerous favorable features in the commercial field at large, according to a statement made by J. T. McEwen, president of the Bank of Montreal. The report estimates the wheat crop at 200,000,000 bushels, with a possibility that it may not reach this figure, which will be the smallest crop of wheat in Canada since 1924, when the yield amounted to 227,097,000 bushels. The report says:

"In the five years elapsed since the partial crop failure of 1924, a large development of Canadian resources, industry and trade has occurred, but-tressing business against a single untoward factor. In that period important strides have been made in harnessing water powers, in new-product production, in motor-car industries, in the fabrication of iron and steel, in output of minerals and in all departments of domestic trade, aggregate wealth of the nation is greater than ever before. Midsum-mer, formerly a slack season in business, now brings a large influx of tourists, who spend money in many branches, and this year the invasion is making a new high record."

"During the commercial year, a large crop, can, indeed, be said that favorable features outnumber the unfavorable and that the volume of commodity production and distribution is at the highest level."

Forty Bird Sanctuaries

Thirty bird sanctuaries have been reserved in Canada by the Department of the Interior under the Migratory Birds Convention Act, which is the Federal law for the protection of migratory birds. There are also fifty-one public shooting grounds reserved by the Dominion Government in Western Canada. Shooting is allowed on these latter areas in the open season.

Canada To Establish

Prison For Juveniles

Money Voted For Institution Says General Hughes

Establishment of a penal institution for young boys has been decided in the ways of time will be brought about within two years, in the opinion of Gen. Sir Pierre Hughes, inspector of Canadian penal institutions.

Although the matter has been discussed since it was first brought up in 1880, the Dominion Government has now appropriated money for the establishment of the juveniles, reformatory or penitentiary, and the institution will be established some-where near Kingston, Gen. Hughes believes. Young people who must be punished will, through this new institution, be segregated from older and more hardened criminals, instead of being thrown amongst them as is done under present conditions.

KILL LITTLE ONES

At the first sign of illness during the summer, give your child one of the Baby's Own Tablets or, in a few hours he may be beyond aid. These Tablets will prevent summer complaints if given occasionally to the child, and will promptly relieve these troubles if they come on suddenly. Baby's Own Tablets should always be kept in every home where there are young children. There is no other medicine as good and so mother has the guarantee that they are absolutely safe. They are sold by all druggists or will be mailed on receipt of price, 25 cents per box. The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Seeking Northern Paradise

Adventurers From Washington State To Investigate Eskimo's Story

The existence of a far north paradise is hinted by Eskimos who told William Leyman, of Ketchikan, a warmer continent with big rivers and fertile valleys beyond Bering Straits, according to officers of the steamingship "Orkney," arriving at Tacoma, Wash. from the Alaskan port on her first round trip this sea season.

As a result of Indian and Eskimo lore prevalent in Ketchikan, Leyman and several adventurers plan to leave by airplane to investigate rumors.

The white men this summer watched wild geese fly far north beyond the Alaska shore. This incident alone is a contention that warm springs or open water of some kind exists toward the North Pole.

Miller's Worm Powders were devised to promptly relieve children who suffer from the ravages of worms. It is a simple preparation to destroy stomachic and intestinal worms without shock or injury to the most sensitive system. They are thoroughly and palatably, and though in some cases they may cause slight diarrhea, it is an indication of their powerful action and not of any nauseating property.

When tea is spilled on a tablecloth, cover the spot immediately with salt. Let it stand for an hour or so. When the cloth is washed the tea stain will have disappeared.

Just Made Him Laugh

Plucky Navigator Not Daunted By Nerve-Racking Experience

A young fellow sailed from Boston for France in a 116-foot open boat equipped with an outboard motor. His chief mate, says the Associated Press dispatch, appeared to be plucky. Plucky, plus we should say. What nerve such an undertaking requires! Yet there are plenty of men who have it. We recall in particular Capt. Howard Blackburne of Gloucester, who once tried the Atlantic crossing alone in an 18-foot sail boat. Off the Grand Banks a storm came up. The exhausted navigator finally threw out a drag to keep the boat's head in the wind and crept into his cabin for a nap. A wave came aboard that threatened to sink the vessel, and that janned the sliding door to the cabin of the boat for a time Blackburne couldn't shove it open to let himself out.

"How did you feel?" he was asked. "Well," he replied, "it seemed so ridiculous that I should die that way that I just laughed out loud."

Little Helps For This Week

"And the Lord shall guide thee continually, and satisfy thy soul in drought." Isaiah lviii, 11.

There is no want I know; His flocks He leads in verdant meads, Where tranquil waters flow.

He doth restore my fainting soul With His divine grace.

And when I stray He points the way To paths of righteousness.

—Baptist Hymn

Through every step in life the Shepherd offers to guide us, if we will but hear His voice and follow Him. He never promises smooth paths, but He does promise, safe ones. If we follow Him we may find peace, and the lowest value of humiliation as a highway to peace.

Use Natural Hot Water

Citizens Of Boise, Idaho, Supplied From Hot Wells

Heating problems have been solved for 200 home owners of Boise, Idaho, who have natural hot water piped into their faucets. It is stated by E. E. Smith, vice-president and general manager of the Boise Water Corporation, in an article in the July issue of the Professional Engineer, monthly organ of the American Association of Engineers. The water comes from the Hot Wells, several miles east of town.

An acre of quagmire was noticed to be warm and never covered by snow in winter. Several men decided to prospect for water and after digging 400 feet found a good flowing supply of hot water. They dug another well, and the two produce 800-900 gallons a day. The water's temperature is around 170 degrees.

Scotchman's Creamery Butter

The output of creamery butter in Saskatchewan for the first six months of the year is exactly 45 per cent. greater than for the similar half year of 1928, according to a report of the dairy branch of the Provincial Department of Agriculture. The output in the first half of 1929 was 6,129,041, and in the first half of 1928, 4,210,349 pounds.

Making Gasoline From Trees

Two Chicago Doctors Claim Production Of Anti-Knock Motor Fuel

"Gasoline" made from trees is announced in a report to the American Chemical Society by Dr. Jacques C. Morrell and Dr. Gustav Riegelt of Chicago.

They have produced an anti-knock motor fuel from the tar in the Douglas fir. While this fuel now is in the laboratory stage, the report says it can be made in commercial quantities from present wood waste.

"The development of a practical and economic means of converting wood waste into motor fuels," says the report, "has a deeper significance than the immediately important factor of conservation—it provides a source of motor fuels for the future which is under the direct control of man."

"Our great storehouses of potential motor fuel from petroleum, coal and all shades are shortages from past ages, while wood farms and other vegetables are producible under controlled conditions."

One teaspoonful of water neutralizes many times its volume of acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go home—why this method is so sure.

Save Your Brush
One of the most harmful ways to keep a paint brush is to let it stand in water or in paint. The water deteriorates the bristles while the paint becomes encrusted so that it cannot be removed. After using, clean your brushes thoroughly with turpentine (or by steaming) then wash them out with soap and water, and dry.

International Harvest
er certainly hit the nail on the head when he brought out that wonderful "Six-Speed Special" Truck for rural hauling. Soft fields, stony hills, and heavy loads bow to the exceptional power of this truck; the only Heavy Duty Speed Truck with six speeds forward and two reverse. And when you pull onto a good road you can slip along at a good clip under full load.

It is that sort of substance which is associated with a tumble in the summer, and a skate the year round.

A big tawny patch appeared on the seat of the little boy's breeches. A kindly old lady attracted by the boy's contagious smile wondered aloud: "why the mother didn't patch his knickerbockers with a color to match." Over hearing her, the boy shouted indignantly: "That haint no patch; that's me!"

Here's a good one that we overheard at Hensington's: "What's steel wood, Bill?" "Well, steel wood is the shearing from a hydraulic ram."
